The resolution offered by Mr. Teller last Saturday, calling for information as to the purchase of silver buillion in September, 1866, was laid before the senate and agreed to.

The silver purchase repeal bill was then taken up and Mr. Kyle argued against the repeal bill.

He contended that as between gold and silver, silver was the more stable measure of commodities; that it was folly to fritter away time with an international monetary conference; that the hope of the United States was in looking forward towards a Pan-American alliance.

Mr. McMillan made an argument in favor of the repeal bill. He said the greater part of the journey towards a second monetary system would have been taken when we should do these three things: First, provide for a currency every part of which shall always be maintained at par with the world's Second, provide for adequate banking reserves distributed throughout the country in accordance with local busiready means of converting securities into cash and cash into securities accord-ing to the need for a more expanded or a more contracted currency. New York. Oct. 2—A murder with all the elements of mystery as to the motive was committed here today in broad daylight at No. 515 East Eighty-sixth etreet.

The story as told by the asighbors is to the effect that shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon a tail, dark and genteel looking woman, dressed in deep mourning, was seen passing to and fro along Eighty-sixth street as if waiting for somebody. It was noticed by those who saw her that she cast furtive glances towards the top floor of No. 515.

Suidenly she ascended the stoop and immediately four short sharp cracks from a revolver were heard. A crowd gathered and rushing into the hall they found Mrs. Carrie Pearsall lying at the fost of the stairs with a bullet wound in the neck and be ding profusely from the mouth and nostrils.

When the crowd entered the hallway the tail woman pocketed her revolver, drew her wrap about her and walked down the stoop. A few of the neighbors followed her and found that she went to the Eighty-eighth street police station to give herself up. She told what she had done and said that her name was Mrs. Catherine Fitzgerald and that she lived at No. 2510 Eighth ascaue. She said she was 43 years old.

Grand Trunk Will Not Pass Into

New York, Oct. 2.—Sir Henry Tyler of London, president of the Grand Trunk railway, is in the city. When asked for his views on the negotiations for American immigration inspection in Canada, he said: "I understand that the Canadian government has decided not to ratify the agreement recently reported, but will not interfere with the arrangment for American inspectors at Canadian ports. The Grand Trunk and other railway officials are all in favor of the proposed inspection. If inspections are not made at the ports they will be all along the border and this would entail much delay and inconvenience and hurt traffic."

Sir Henry denied that the Grand Trunk is about to pass into American hands or that Russell Sage is negotiat-ing for a block of its stock.

MINE INSPECTORS MUZZLED.

Choosing Them.

Masquette, Mich. Oct 2.—The awful disaster at the Manefield iron mine last Friday has already led to a popular movement for the modification of the statute creating the office of county inspectors of mines and vesting in the county board of supervisors the choice of mine inspector. Two-thirds of the supervisors in the mining districts are resident managers or chief clerks of the mines, thus making the mine inspector dependent for his election upon the very corporations whose methods he is charged by law to scrutinize. Instead of a disinterested and impartial official, he is a mere tool of the mining companies and concludes his perfunctory investigations into mine accidents with a sterotyped report exonerating the company from all blame.
